

RAMS Adventures - Cookie Policy

What are cookies?

Cookies are small files stored on your computer and they allow us to distinguish you from other users when you visit our site.

Cookies themselves do not contain personal information and RAMS Adventures Ltd do not use cookies to collect any personal information.

Essential cookies:

These cannot be opted-out of and are required for the operation of our website. RAMS Adventures use Google Analytics which use their own cookies and provides us with anonymous website performance data however you can download Google Privacy Policy for more information.

Marketing cookies:

These cookies allow us to make our marketing to you more relevant and to target advertising to you while you are on other sites. Please note that turning off Marketing cookies won't mean that you will never see any of our advertising, it just means that it will not be personalised.

Controlling the use of cookies:

You can use your browser settings to accept or reject all, or certain, cookies. Your browser will also allow you to delete cookies that have already been stored. The menu options for this will differ by browser and browser version; instructions will be provided if you use the browser's Help function and search for cookies.

What happens if I turn cookies off?:

If you turn cookies off, during your visits to our website certain features won't work correctly.
